

How to access the “chord view” on the Bluegrass Jamming DVD

“Bluegrass Jamming” includes a feature that lets you follow the chords while playing along. The DVD gives a choice of seeing the whole band or just the guitar chord hand on your screen, and you can easily jump between these views.

- Using a standard DVD player: Look for an “angle” button on the remote control. If you do not have that, there should be a “Menu” button on your remote that will bring up some further options. That will let you access the angle feature. (Since not all DVD players are alike, you may have to do a little searching, but it should be there.)
- Viewing the DVD on your computer: This will vary depending on whether you are on a Mac or a Windows platform, but the on-screen controls should allow you to choose your angle. This may be an icon that looks like a movie camera. See the screen shot below, bottom right.

- If you are not able to find the button allowing you to access the “angle” button or equivalent, please contact Homespun Instruction:
- info@Homespun.com or 800-33 TAPES